

LOS ANGELES QUAKE LOSS IS $125,000

Falling Walls Kill One and Injure Several—Reconstruction Starts.

Los Angeles, June 22.—The work of rebuilding the business section of Inglewood, ten miles southwest of this city, which suffered most from the series of earthquakes in Los Angeles county last night, was well under way to-day.

virtually the entire population of 1,000 taking part.

An emergency ordinance providing for a special committee to take charge of the situation and condemn any building found to be unsafe for occupancy was adopted by the Inglewood City Council.

Arthur Corey, City Engineer of Inglewood, said the damage there probably would exceed $100,000. Losses in Los Angeles and other points were estimated at $125,000. Pasadena felt three shocks. One person was killed and several were injured by falling walls in Inglewood.

When street car traffic on the line of the Los Angeles Railway Corporation was halted for half an hour, beginning about 10:20 A. M., officers of the company said they had word the delay was due to an earthquake shock which temporarily crippled a power plant at Huntington Lake, seventy miles east of Fresno. Late to-day the officials said they had another message that the plant had a slight breakdown but that the cause was not stated to be an earthquake.

The tremor that shattered Inglewood was southern California's second experience with earth shocks within three years. On April 21, 1918, the towns of San Jacinto and Hemet in Riverside county, about seventy miles southeast of Los Angeles, were severely damaged in a series of three earthquakes. The effect of the disturbance was plainly felt in Los Angeles, where plate glass windows were broken. An earthquake affecting the same territory occurred on December 25, 1919, and there was extensive property damage and some loss of life.

No earthquake has occurred in California in recent years, however, approaching the severity of the disaster that visited San Francisco on April 18, 1906, when the city was laid in ruins through the combined effects of the earth disturbance and fire.

Laymen familiar with causes of earthquakes in this State believe last night's disturbance in southern California to a slipping of the strata in the principal geological fault extending along the coast from a point on the northern California coast to the Gulf of Lower California.

Other distinct geological faults are located in what is known as the peninsular section, comprising San Francisco and San Mateo counties. These are known respectively as the San Bruno, San Andreas and Pilarcitos faults. The San Andreas fault is believed by scientists to have caused the 1906 disaster in San Francisco.

Former Empire's Condition.

Doggs, Holland, June 22.—The announcement is made that the condition of the former German Empire is not immediately serious.

Ye Thirsty Millions

In obedience to law and order of our country and having complied with all rules and regulations regarding the brewing of malted beverages for over fifty years, we wish to announce that we are still endeavoring to meet the tastes and requirements of the thirsty millions.

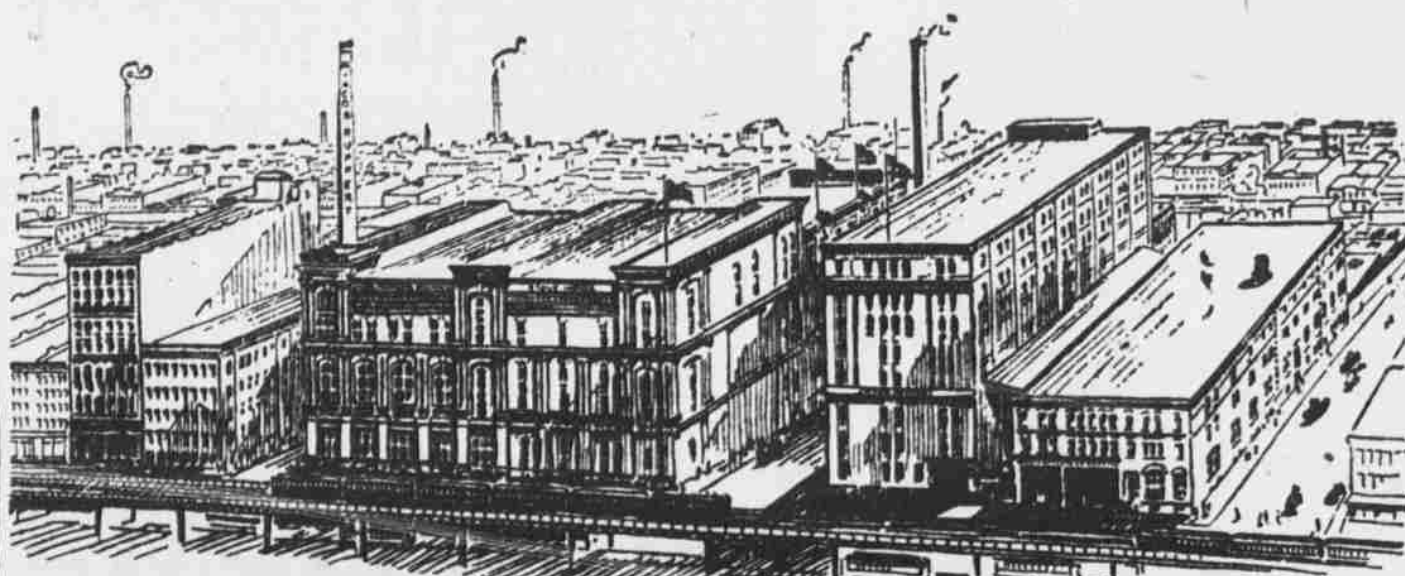

We can still supply the public with the best beverage that can possibly be brewed from the best hops and barley malt.

In these DRY TIMES when there are so many dangerous decoctions under the name of drink-OLAS and drink-ADES, with a thousand and one other bilious AIDS—for health's sake, you should drink

JACOB RUPPERT'S Knickerbocker The Beverage That Satisfies

Knickerbocker beverage is nourishment in an agreeable form. It is brewed, aged and handled through and by the same process, both scientifically and mechanically that always made the Jacob Ruppert products acceptable and justly famous.

The beverage, first of all, is made from choice selections of the highest priced materials that can be obtained. After it has been fully aged and clarified it is forced through pipes direct to the bottling machines and there automatically bottled and sealed without coming in contact with outside air or human handling. From the bottling machines the beverage is placed in steel cases, which protect it from sunlight exposure, and is delivered through dealers direct to homes, where it is served in perfect condition and more purer than water drawn from the well or a mountain spring.

THE FINEST BREWHOUSE IN THE WORLD

WHAT THE NEW YORK CRITICS THINK OF Mack Sennett's
"MARRIED LIFE"
"Mack Sennett has well earned the title of comedy king. "MARRIED LIFE" is the supreme laughing achievement of them all."—EVE JOURNAL.

"Mack Sennett's 'MARRIED LIFE' would do credit to Ed-
